

Why set up a consortium of quality mattress manufacturers?

Sonia Piccoli

president of the Consorzio produttori materassi di qualità

The Consortium of Quality Mattress Manufacturers was created in response to the growing demand for quality from consumers who are more and more concerned about their own health.

The new interest in physical well-being and comfort extends to sleep, an essential aspect of our lives accounting for an average of one third of all our activity. And mattresses have the leading role.

No single model can be right for everyone: On the contrary, a mattress must be fitted and tried out before purchase, just like a garment.

We use it for approximately eight hours a day, and during deep sleep, our muscles have to relax completely. If it does not adapt perfectly to our bodies and provide harmonious support to our framework, we run the risk of harmful muscle pain and compression.

The right mattress in the right place!

The Consortium of quality mattress manufacturers was set up to safeguard the consumer, grouping together some of the most qualified companies in the sector, and operates within the Assarredo/Federlegno-Arredo associations: seven companies who have joined forces to disseminate correct information on sleep-related matters and to set standards and parameters to be reached by all.

The Consortium's activities can be summed up in its seal of quality, which has been registered at international level and certifies quality from all points of view: raw materials, production technology, research, manufacturer's and product guarantees.

A cloth label showing the seal of quality is numbered and sewn onto the mattress. First of all, make sure the mattress you are considering has one; the next step is to try it out once, twice, as many times as necessary, until you find the right one to suit your needs. These are the main points to make sure you sleep well and improve your quality of life.
